This list is compiled using, and we have relied on, information provided to us by food suppliers approved by Smashburger, as of April 1, 2011. Because Smashburger restaurants are individually owned and operated and may use food suppliers not approved by or known to Smashburger, and because suppliers may change their ingredients without notifying us or before this list is updated, this list may be incomplete or inaccurate at the time of your visit. Also, although efforts are made to avoid cross-contact of allergens, it is possible that cross-contact with allergens will occur should individual foods come in contact with one another during preparation. Therefore, it is important that, if you or anyone in your party has a food allergy, you inform your server before placing your order.
